

Dressage Clinic with Sue Kenney-Downer

About Sue Kenney-Downer

Sue Kenney-Downer has been teaching riding for 30 years. Beginning her career in the hunter and jumper world, she became interested in flat work for jumpers and ultimately found the world of dressage. While competing at the FEI level, Sue was fortunate to have trained with Kathy Connelly, Robert Dover, Michael Poulin and Pam Goodrich. Sue has also ridden in clinics with Walter Christensen, Louise Nathorst and Herbert Rehbein.

Teaching has now become her main focus. Sue has students training and competing from training level through the FEI classes. She develops the horse and rider using the training scale to educate the rider and gymnastically develop the horse. Although most of her students train and compete in dressage, she also enjoys working with event and jumper riders to improve the balance, suppleness and rideability of their horses.
